

LYON ASKS DELAWARE TO LEAD DRY CRUSADE AGAINST KING BOOZE

Wilmington Congregation Wants State to Be Prime Mover in Great Battle Against Saloons

ODD FELLOWS ATTEND

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 2.—In New Jersey going to drive out the booze joints before Delaware does? asked Dr. Milford H. Lyon of his large congregation in the tabernacle last night.

"No" was the response of the congregation, and many of the exclamations came from the section in which 1500 Odd Fellows of Delaware were seated.

Doctor Lyon then called for prayers by the people of Wilmington today for the great temperance movement in Trenton.

"Wouldn't it be grand," he continued, "if this little State of Delaware should lead in the temperance movement as well as in the religious movement and take a definite stand on prohibition, and by so doing let its radiance shine upon the surrounding States? You can do it, and I pray that you will grasp your opportunity."

Referring to his trip to Washington Monday, the evangelist told his hearers that Senator William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, and several of his colleagues in the Senate had told him that the prohibition bill for the District of Columbia had been taken out of committee and that it would be brought back before the Senate in a very short time.

Let your two Senators from Delaware know where you stand on this question, Doctor Lyon said. "Write them and let Delaware's vote count on the right side."

Major James F. Price, of Wilmington, defended the detestable act of the Odd Fellows and presented Doctor Lyon with $100.

The evangelist, in referring to the interest of Mayor Price in the campaign, said:

"It is fortunate that we are not in the same scrape here in Wilmington that my friend, Brother Stough, is in in Atlantic City. Every city needs religion, but Atlantic City needs it most of all. Praise God that we have a Mayor here who is not ashamed to come out definitely on the Lord's side, and I hope that the people of Atlantic City will realize now that in elections the men with religious thoughts should come to the foreground."

Great preparations have been made for the two services today at the tabernacle. This is "Motherhood" in the campaign and every person interested in the cause is requested to wear carnations, a red one if the parent is living and a white one if the mother has departed.

The evangelist will speak on "Motherhood" in the afternoon and "The Supremacy of Love" in the evening.

NEW EXPORT REGULATION No Shipments to Be Accepted Unless Accompanied by Declarations

A new Government regulation regarding the filing of the export declarations of shippers is in operation today. The object is to promote the compilation of more accurate statistics concerning the export business of this country.

Shippers in this city have received notice of the new regulations through the Department of Commerce and the Treasury Department.

Under the terms of the new orders from Washington, customs officials will grant clearance papers to any vessel "until a complete manifest accompanied by bills of lading, declarations or certified extracts thereof, for all the cargo on board, has been filed by the steamship company with the collector of customs."

Vessels bound for foreign countries are required not to accept shipments unless accompanied by shippers' declarations.

Police Court Chronicles When William Welsh attends a funeral in the future, he will go straight to the home of the corpse.

William started out with good intentions today, but was only able to carry three black boxes. He told many charitable-looking men in the place that had died. Then with much pathos and sobbing he admitted that it was a long walk to the funeral home. He also expressed the hope that the police would help him to reach the place a little quicker, and that the possession of a nickel would be enough to pay his fare.

Many persons felt sorry for William. They proved it by giving him enough for a round trip. William's grief increased each time he told the tale. He was so narrow-minded, in fact, that he actually forgot he had the price of the car ride. Then he became weak and was obliged to get nourishment.

After resting against several bars in the neighborhood of Ridge and Midvale avenues, Welsh again started for the home of his deceased friend. Trolley cars ignored him completely and he was weak in the knees. He passed a good natured

NEW JERSEY POLITICIANS HIT THE TRAIL WHEN 'BILLY' SUNDAY CALLS

General Murray Links Arms With Assemblyman Moore in Charge Up Sawdust Path

FIELDER TO ATTEND

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 2.—New Jersey politicians are heading "Billy" Sunday's call. Prominent men of both parties are hitting the trail tonight, since the example was set by the late Governor Woodrow Wilson, who was followed by Governor Moore.

The first of the big trail hitters last night was former County Engineer Frank P. Epple, who until a short time ago was the moving spirit in Mercer County affairs so far as the Boar of Freeholders was concerned. Last night he walked forward and took the hand of the evangelist.

Former Assemblyman Hervey S. Moore was seated on the very front row when the trail hitting started. Moore and General Murray have never been political pals, nor often being opposed at the primary elections. But General Murray scolded three rows of seats to get Moore by the arm and led him to "Billy."

The sight aroused applause from the crowd of 12,000.

Governor Fielder, members of the Legislature and state officials will attend the services in Sunday's tabernacle next Tuesday afternoon. Arrangements for the visit were made last night by a committee which called upon "Billy" and arranged for the services.

"Billy" expressed himself as delighted at the prospect of a chance to address the lawmakers, particularly in view of the approaching battle over the local option bill, which will probably be brought up and passed by the Senate next week. He told the committee, however, he would not be a politician, but would preach a straight gospel message.

Each member of the committee received a photograph of "Billy," bearing his autograph.

The visit to the Sunday home was made shortly after 7 o'clock. The appointment of John E. Gill, of this city, as the fifth member of the committee already named in part by President Read and Speaker Moore, in the legislative members were Senators Wells and Achey and Assemblymen Iobst and Hammond.

Great preparations have been made for the two services today at the tabernacle. This is "Motherhood" in the campaign and every person interested in the cause is requested to wear carnations, a red one if the parent is living and a white one if the mother has departed.

STOUGH IS WARNED IN ANONYMOUS NOTE OF PLOT TO 'GET' HIM

Detectives Watch the Evangelist While He Preaches and Guard Him When He Sleeps

ATLANTIC CITY, Feb. 2.—Evangelical agency at the command of the police is being utilized today to disclose the identity of an anonymous letter writer whose warning that it was proposed to "get" the Rev. Henry Merle Stough, critic of Mayor William H. Taft, the Woodliff district, cabinet keepers, gamblers and the police administration, caused extraordinary precautions to protect the evangelist.

Only a few pastors associated with him knew the cause for a swarm of blue-coats and plain-clothes men about the tabernacle. The crowd attributed it to Stough's criticism of the police for failure to apprehend a Riddle gunman whose yell in the midst of Sunday's meeting sent the audience rushing for the doors.

The Rev. Henry Merle Stough, the Rev. Herbert Belling and the Rev. Thomas Cross, who told Chief of Police Woodruff of the threats and received his assurances of adequate police measures, did not take Stough into their confidence, and the evangelist had no knowledge that detectives walked in front and behind him when he went to the tabernacle and guarded him back to his stopping place after the meeting.

Chief Woodruff watched Stough throughout his discourse, with detectives close at hand. Officers guarded the house while he slept.
